

ACCELERATED DUAL-DEGREE BACHELOR'S/JD (3+3) PROGRAM

Accelerated Dual-Degree Bachelor's/JD (3+3) Program

Quinnipiac University offers an innovative Bachelor's/Juris Doctor accelerated program, which will shorten the usual seven-year sequence to just six years to earn a BA or BS in a major in the College of Arts & Sciences or the Schools of Business, Communications, Computing & Engineering, or Health Sciences, and the JD from the Quinnipiac School of Law. This program serves as a pathway only to the Quinnipiac School of Law.

Benefits

The Accelerated Dual-Degree Bachelor's/JD (3+3) program provides a number of benefits. In addition to the opportunity to complete both degrees in only six years, students may:

- Live in Quinnipiac housing for four years.
- Participate in specific programming including interacting with the law school dean and faculty throughout the undergraduate years.
- Enroll in a 1-credit LSAT prep class offered to help students prepare for the exam.

Qualifications

Select students are invited to participate in the program. These include students admitted to the College of Arts & Sciences, School of Business, School of Communications, School of Computing & Engineering or School of Health Sciences at Quinnipiac, who have a cumulative high school GPA of 3.50 or higher on a 4.00 scale, score 1200 or higher on the SAT (critical reading plus math) or an ACT composite of 25 or higher, and indicate an interest in "pre-law" or "combined BA or BS/JD." Students interested in the program who are close to but do not meet the admission criteria may apply to the Office of Undergraduate Admissions for special consideration.

Students accepted into the program by Undergraduate Admissions in their first year and who receive a Quinnipiac merit scholarship will have the scholarship renewed each year of the six-year program provided they meet ALL of the following requirements:

- Maintain a minimum 3.00 GPA at the end of each undergraduate academic year
- Have a cumulative GPA of 3.50 when they enter the law school
- Achieve an LSAT score equal to, or greater than, the law school's first-year class median at the time the law school application is submitted
- Upon starting law school, continue to meet the renewal requirements of the law school scholarship

Program Requirements

Students admitted to the Accelerated Dual-Degree Bachelor's/JD (3+3) program are required to:

- Complete all major and University Curriculum requirements for a total of at least 90 credits (which can include any AP or advanced standing credits as determined when they enter as first-year students) with a minimum cumulative 3.50 GPA.

- Complete at least 75 undergraduate (non-law) credits at Quinnipiac immediately prior to matriculation in the School of Law. Advanced placement and transfer credits do not apply toward this 75-credit requirement; the 75 credits must be Quinnipiac courses.
- Regularly meet with Quinnipiac's pre-law advisor as well as the academic advisor in their major to be certain they have completed all major and University Curriculum requirements before entering the School of Law.
- Complete course overloads as necessary to satisfy the undergraduate degree requirements in the accelerated time period.

Program Structure

The program requires completion of a minimum of 90 undergraduate credits (75 of which must be taken at Quinnipiac University), including all major and University Curriculum requirements, by the end of the undergraduate third year. Students will:

- Use the first year of law school for their fourth year of undergraduate credits and count up to 30 law school credits toward their undergraduate degree. This applies only to students who attend the Quinnipiac School of Law.
- Be full-time law students in the first semester of their fourth year.
- Earn a bachelor's degree at the end of their first year of law school/fourth year of college.

Law School Transition

In their third year, students in the Accelerated Dual-Degree Bachelor's/JD (3+3) program must:

- Have a cumulative GPA of 3.50 by the end of the third year.
- Take the Law School Admission Test (LSAT) and achieve a score equal to, or greater than, the law school's first-year class median at the time the law school application is submitted.
- File a law school application with the Law School Admissions Council (LSAC) by March 15 of their third undergraduate year, receiving assistance from the Quinnipiac School of Law admissions office if necessary.
- Pass review by the Quinnipiac School of Law Admissions Committee ensuring that the prerequisites are met, there are no character and fitness issues, and the applicant has a demonstrated record of maturity and leadership that would reflect the ability to succeed in law school. Students who do not meet the minimum GPA or LSAT score requirements may still be considered by the Law School Admissions Committee. If they are admitted, they would not be guaranteed the scholarship awarded at the undergraduate level.

Accelerated Dual-Degree Bachelor's/JD (3+3)

Program of Study Option 1

Students will use the first year of law school for their fourth year of undergraduate credits and count up to 30 law school credits toward their undergraduate degree. Students will earn a bachelor's degree by the end of their first year of law school/fourth year of undergraduate.

The program is structured as follows:

Years 1 through 3 (Undergraduate)

Students will focus efforts on working toward their undergraduate degree program requirements according to the Academic Catalog and guidance from their academic and pre-law adviser.

By the end of the third year, students must:

- Complete all major and University Curriculum requirements for a total of at least 90 credits (which can include any AP or advanced standing credits as determined when they enter as first-year students) with a minimum cumulative 3.50 GPA.
- Complete at least 75 undergraduate (non-law) credits at Quinnipiac immediately prior to matriculation at the School of Law.
- Take the Law School Admission Test (LSAT) and achieve an LSAT score equal to, or greater than, the law school's first-year class median.
 - Students who do not meet the GPA and/or LSAT score requirements may still be considered by the Admissions Committee to determine whether they are eligible for early admission to the law school, and if so, whether they will receive merit scholarship funds.
- Submit an application to the law school by March 15 of their third undergraduate year.

If those prerequisites are met, there are no character and fitness issues, and the applicant has a demonstrated record of maturity and leadership that would reflect the ability to succeed in law school, the student would be admitted to the law school and guaranteed a scholarship in the amount awarded to them as undergraduates, subject to the law school renewal policy.

Year 4 (Law)

Students will be full-time law students upon entering the law school. Students will complete their undergraduate degree (BA or BS) by the end of the spring semester of their fourth year and will participate in the undergraduate Commencement ceremony in May. All courses in this option will be day courses.
